

Cleanliness drive at Gyarah Murti in Delhi

Being a NCC cadet it's a privilege to go to iconic places and learn a lot from there. Due to the rising cases of corona virus we couldn't get the opportunity for camps yet but we were lucky enough to go to 11 idols (11 murti).

The big, shimmering dark model portraying Gandhi's iconic Dandi March of 1931 stands proudly in the core of the city, effectively noticeable on the Sardar Patel Marg, close to Willingdon Crescent. This idyllic figure by veteran craftsman and artist Devi Prasad Roy Chowdhury shows ten Indian individuals following Gandhi on his way breaking Civil Disobedience fight, consequently the name - 'Gyarah Murti'.

We had a cleanliness drive over there. After NCC practice we went there by bus. We cleaned the idols with great passion. It was enjoyable. I learned a lot about gyarah murti, civil disobedience movement and significance of this movement at that point of time. Moreover, I learned more about team work cooperation and discipline.

Written by :

Kajal Jha (DL20SWA953263)

Dyal Singh College, 4 DGBN

Delhi directorate